William Berenwick

Down, down, down into the darkness of the grave
Gently they go, the beautiful, the tender, the kind
Quietly they go, the intelligent, the witty, the brave
I know. But I do not approve. And I am not resigned.

— Edna St. Vincent Millay

The name of Dr. Anthony A. Avella has become familiar to leaders in progressive education. Since his appointment to the post of Superintendant of Hillside Public Schools last July, he has become both instrumental and inspirational in encouraging, new, more effective methods of learning in the elementary schools and Hillside High School.

Having completed its maiden year at Hillside High modular scheduling is the brainchild of Dr. Avella. He was also a key figure in the Independent Study program at the high school. These programs have influenced the elementary schools to prepare their students for secondary school.

After a successful first year of progressive education Dr. Avella has done more than gain headlines. He is giving Hillside educated individuals of a calibre to truly be proud of.

HILLSIDE HIGH SCHOOL, HILLSIDE, NEW JERSEY

Hiller Selects 1969-70 Editorial Board; Richard Vespucci Assumes Head Post

Since February, the HILLER has gone through the yearly ritual of trying-out prospective candidates for positions as editors on the paper. At the conclusion of Junior Richard Vespucci as the new Editor-in-Chief for the 1969-70 school year. Beverly Mangold is to serve as Co-Editor of the publication.

Besides these two new editors replacing Anne Deutsch and Jerry Genberg, the remaining Hiller editors were also chosen. Page One editor Cathy Pollak will relinquish her job of organizing and writing to junior Diane Drew. John Spitala will take on the position of Page Two editor formerly held by Beverly Mangold.

Wendy Sirkin's job as Page Three editor will become the responsibility of Ruth Zucker-man. Junior Roberta Slater will acquire Diane Drew's position as she becomes Page Four editor.

Pages Five and Six of the Hiller are reserved for sports' news and features. This year Richard Vespucci has organized these two pages. For the 1969-70 Hiller, the responsibility of sports' news will be divided. Eddy Liebowitz and Joe Tato will share the editorship of Page Five. Page Six will go to Stan Lemond.

Writing headlines is an essential job on the Hiller. Serena Fox and Fran Silberich will assume this task previously held by Ellen Siegalovsky and Roberta Slater. Proof-reading and re-writing articles are the jobs of the Copy editors. Ellen Freund will continue in this position while Margery Friedman replaces Marilyn Kuter.

Creativeness in the form of art will be the responsibility of Glenn Chase who will assume Gary Klueber's editorship. Eddy Liebowitz will continue in his job as Photography editor.

Lewis Janowsky and Gail Pirchesky will give up their duties as Business editors to Vicki Cella and Steven Novy. The new Typing editors will be Joy Norton and Caren Peckerman who receive Rebecca Plakcy and Ruth Zuckerman's former jobs. Pat Bontempo will serve as Feature Editor and Roving Reporter.
